

Monthly read August 2026

SAMPLE

Specialty trade contractor

California · $4.2M revenue · 14 employees

DASHBOARD · 13-WEEK FORECAST · COMMENTARY

THE FIVE NUMBERS

	THIS MONTH	VS LAST YEAR	VS BUDGET
Revenue	$341,000	+$23,000	-$44,000
Gross margin	29.4%	-2.3 pts	-2.6 pts
Operating profit	$12,670	-$5,960	-$21,130
Cash in the bank	$168,000	-$100,000
Days cash is tied up	54.3 days	+20.1 days

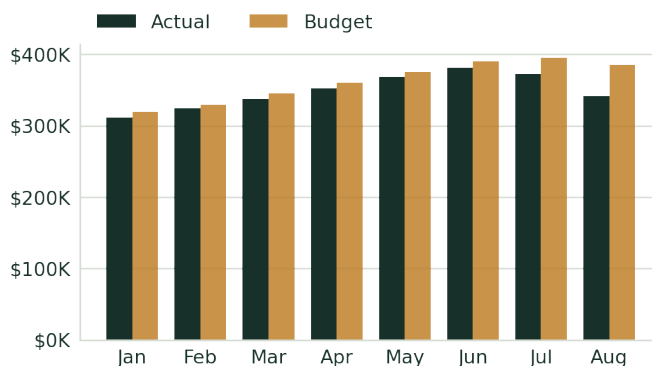

THE QUESTION NOBODY IS ANSWERING

Your cash bottoms out at $53,500 in week 7 — $96,500 below your floor.

Eight of the next thirteen weeks sit under the minimum you need on hand.

$211,936 of that is already sitting in your own receivables and stock.

REVENUE — ACTUAL VS BUDGET

CASH — NEXT 13 WEEKS

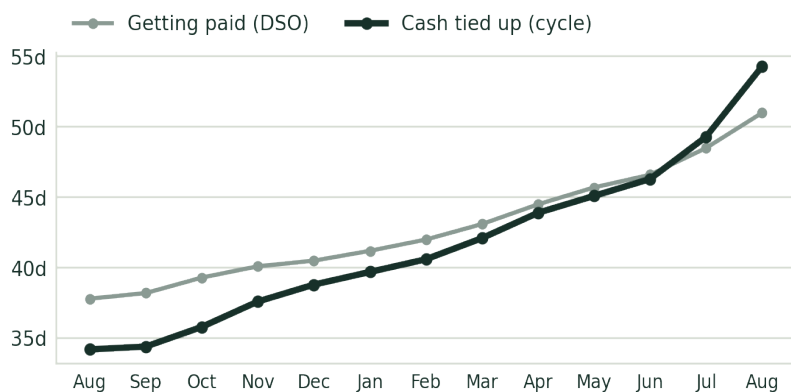

THE READ

Revenue beat last August, so on your bank statement nothing looks wrong. But your margin has slipped for eight straight months and your cash has fallen every month since December. You are profitable and still running out of room — your money goes into receivables and stock faster than it comes back out.

First move: collect the way you did in March. That alone covers the week 7 shortfall twice over.

Where your cash actually is

HOW LONG YOUR CASH IS TIED UP

CASH YOU ALREADY OWN

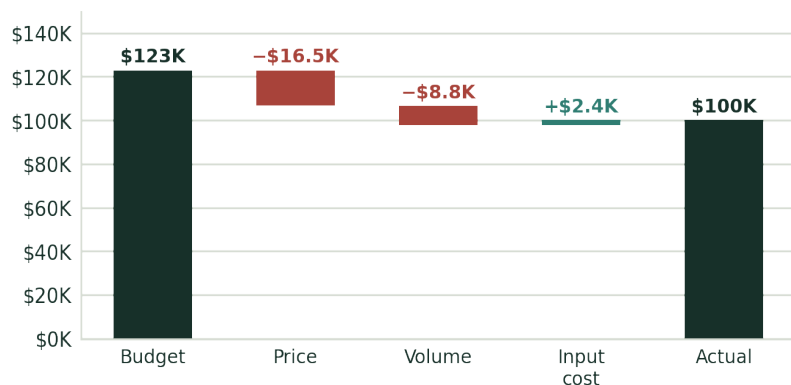

You collect in	51.0 days
Your best month	37.8 days
Drift	13.2 days
One day of revenue	$11,367

Released by collecting like your best month

$149,997

Plus stock held at your best level: $61,939

WHAT MOVED THE MARGIN

Your margin didn't fall because you sold less. It fell because you priced too low.

Price cost you $16,500 against budget. Lost volume cost $8,800. Your input costs were actually $2,400 favorable.

Your bookkeeper reports the 2.6-point drop. Nobody tells you which of the three caused it — or what to do next.

WHAT ARRIVES EVERY MONTH

- A one-page dashboard
 The three to five numbers that actually drive your business.
- A 13-week cash forecast
 Your cash week by week, with the tight spots flagged early.
- Plain-English commentary
 What changed, why, and what we'd do about it.
- A 45-minute strategy call
 Pricing, hiring, financing — bring whatever is weighing on you

Thirty minutes. Your actual numbers.

We'll tell you honestly whether we can help. No pitch deck, no pressure.

patinodavila.com